4-3	I think Japanese people should have more children. I have two reasons. First, there will not be enough workers in Japan if there is a lack of young people in the future. Second, it is easier for younger people to help older people if there is a large number of young people. For these reasons, I think having more children is important for Japanese society. (65語) I don't think Japanese people should have more children. I have two reasons. First, if the number of people keeps increasing, the level of CO2 in the air will go up, too. Second, when parents raise fewer children, they need less food. That will be better for the earth. For these reasons, I don't think Japanese people should have more children. (61語)
